

百九十八日

学級委員長

(198 Days: Class President)

撰寫並繪製插圖

奧利佛·卡拉拉●齊亞瑪拉

OLIVER K.

198 Days Class President

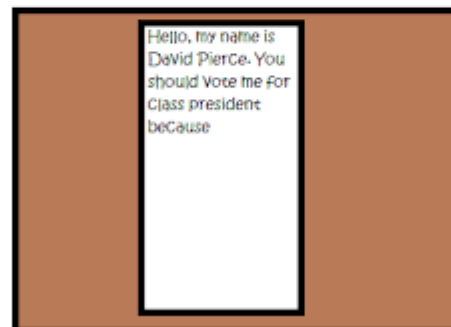

Written and illustrated by Oliver K. Tshiamala

The following comics appeared on official198days.blogspot.com from July 24 to October 26, 2023. All rights reserved.

Email me if you want to use these comics for things such as reviews, school, or more and I will get to you.

Author commentary: The beginning of an arc. I remember when I thought it would be cool to have an ongoing story for a week or two for the comic so people would take it seriously, but that didn't work out. I don't take it seriously myself.

Author commentary: I imagine David to be the guy who sucks at English. Of course he is based off me, but I'm very skilled at English. I also used brown for the background of the last panel to indicate a table for "artistic" purposes.. heh.

Author commentary: So this comic was inspired by a Big Nate comic published on September 12, 2008 where Nate's dad is trying to break the news that Nate's schoolmates and him are going to a replacement school. They name possibly literally every single school in the town and Dad says "Nope! Jefferson", meaning they have to go to their arch-rival school. And of course the three boys do that iconic yell drawing.

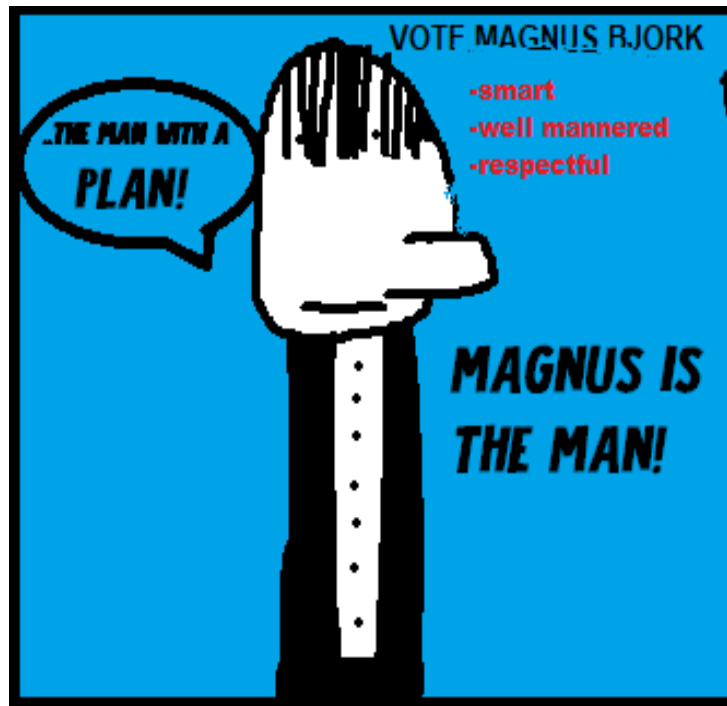

Sorry, Lincoln. Copyright to you. I love your comics and you inspired me to do mine. Moving on.

Author commentary: So.. yeah. More anger and lore. I guess I can't imagine what a baby picture of David would be, but I think that episode of Spongebob where Squiddy sees a picture of himself with a diaper on (there's turd in the diaper) and yells is what I imagine but in David form.

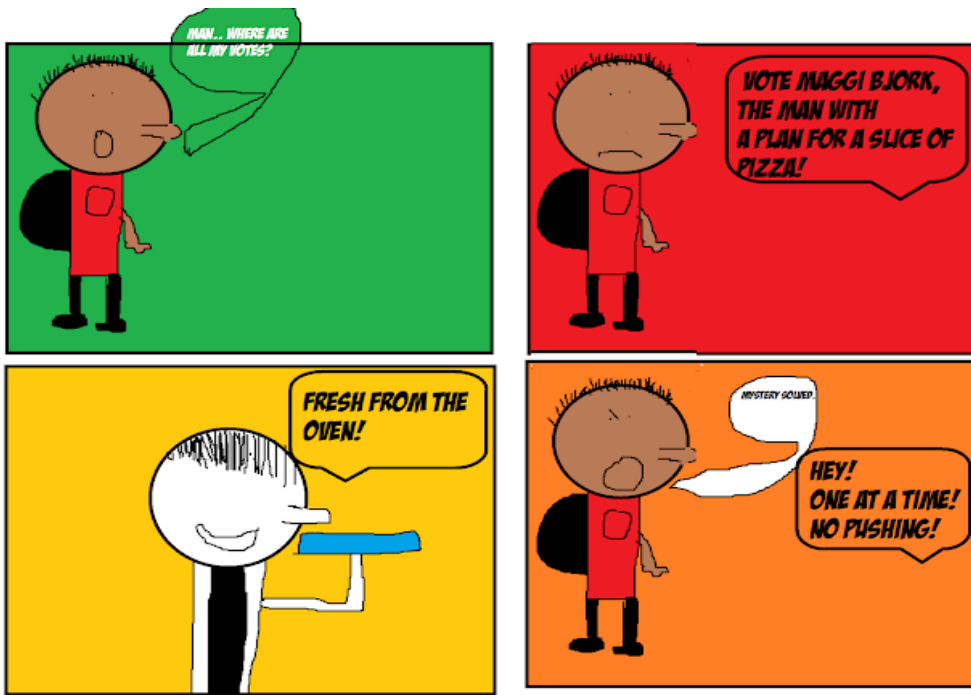

Author commentary: So, this is where I decided to think about where (City of Melbourne) and when 198 Days happens. They use new slang, but in a later comic you see David using Windows 7 which didn't release until 2009. So they live in a universe where it's 2010 (2010 was the start of my fav decade) and they use 2020s slang.

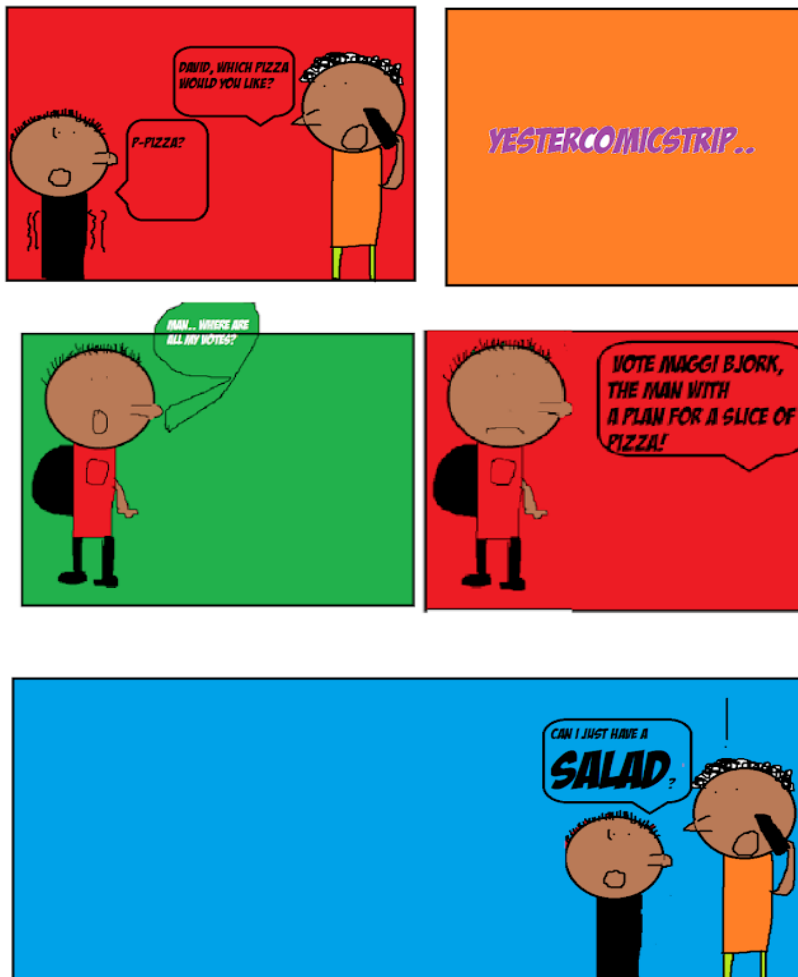

Author commentary: The last comic was published on August 5, 2023 and I took a break so I could work on my LazyTown megamix due to the show turning nineteen. And I hadn't published a comic after August 16 which is when the anniversary was for a whole week. And I was so desperate to get a comic out, so this one doesn't have a story, or punchline. Just a poster that was put up in David's school so that they voted Magnus for school president.

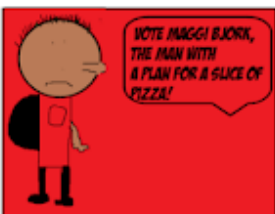

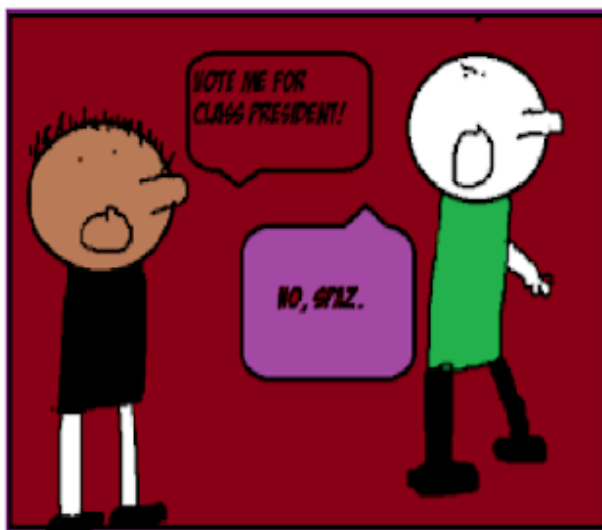

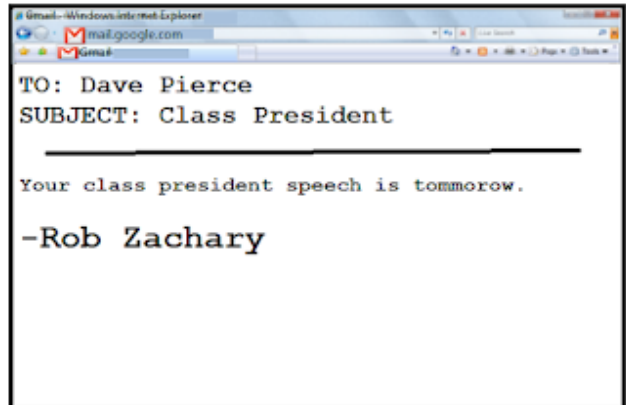

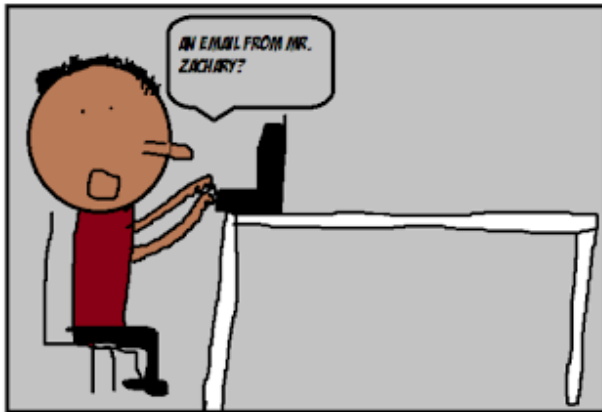

Author commentary: This was originally gonna be a drawing of David shoved in a bin (again, inspired by Big Nate and partially The Spy Next Door, one of the first family Jackie Chan movies I watched), but it was way too complicated to draw so I just stuck with a punched David.

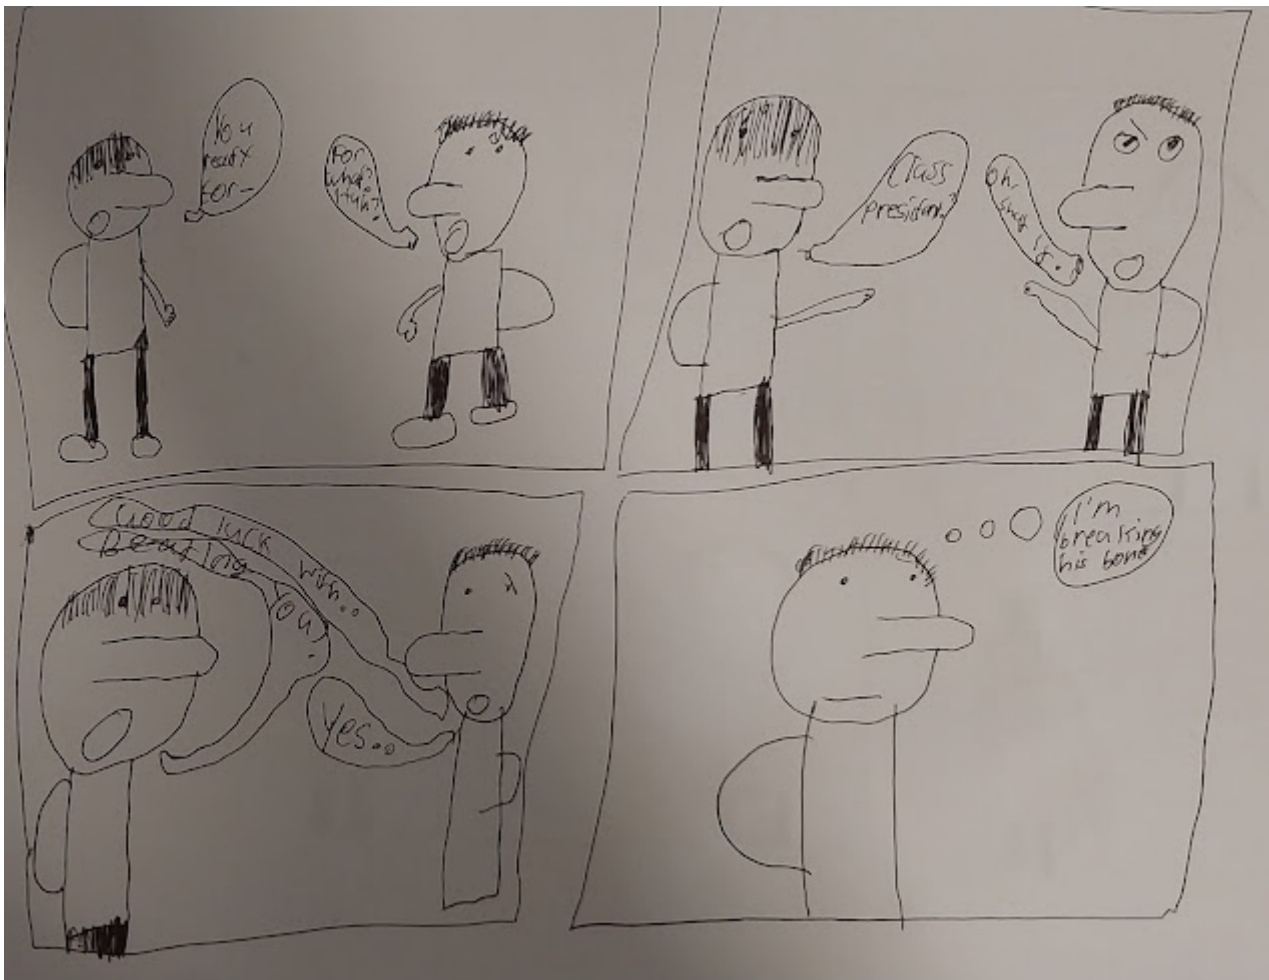

Author commentary: Magnus keeps on pushing and pushing and pushing to win. David is just done with it by now.

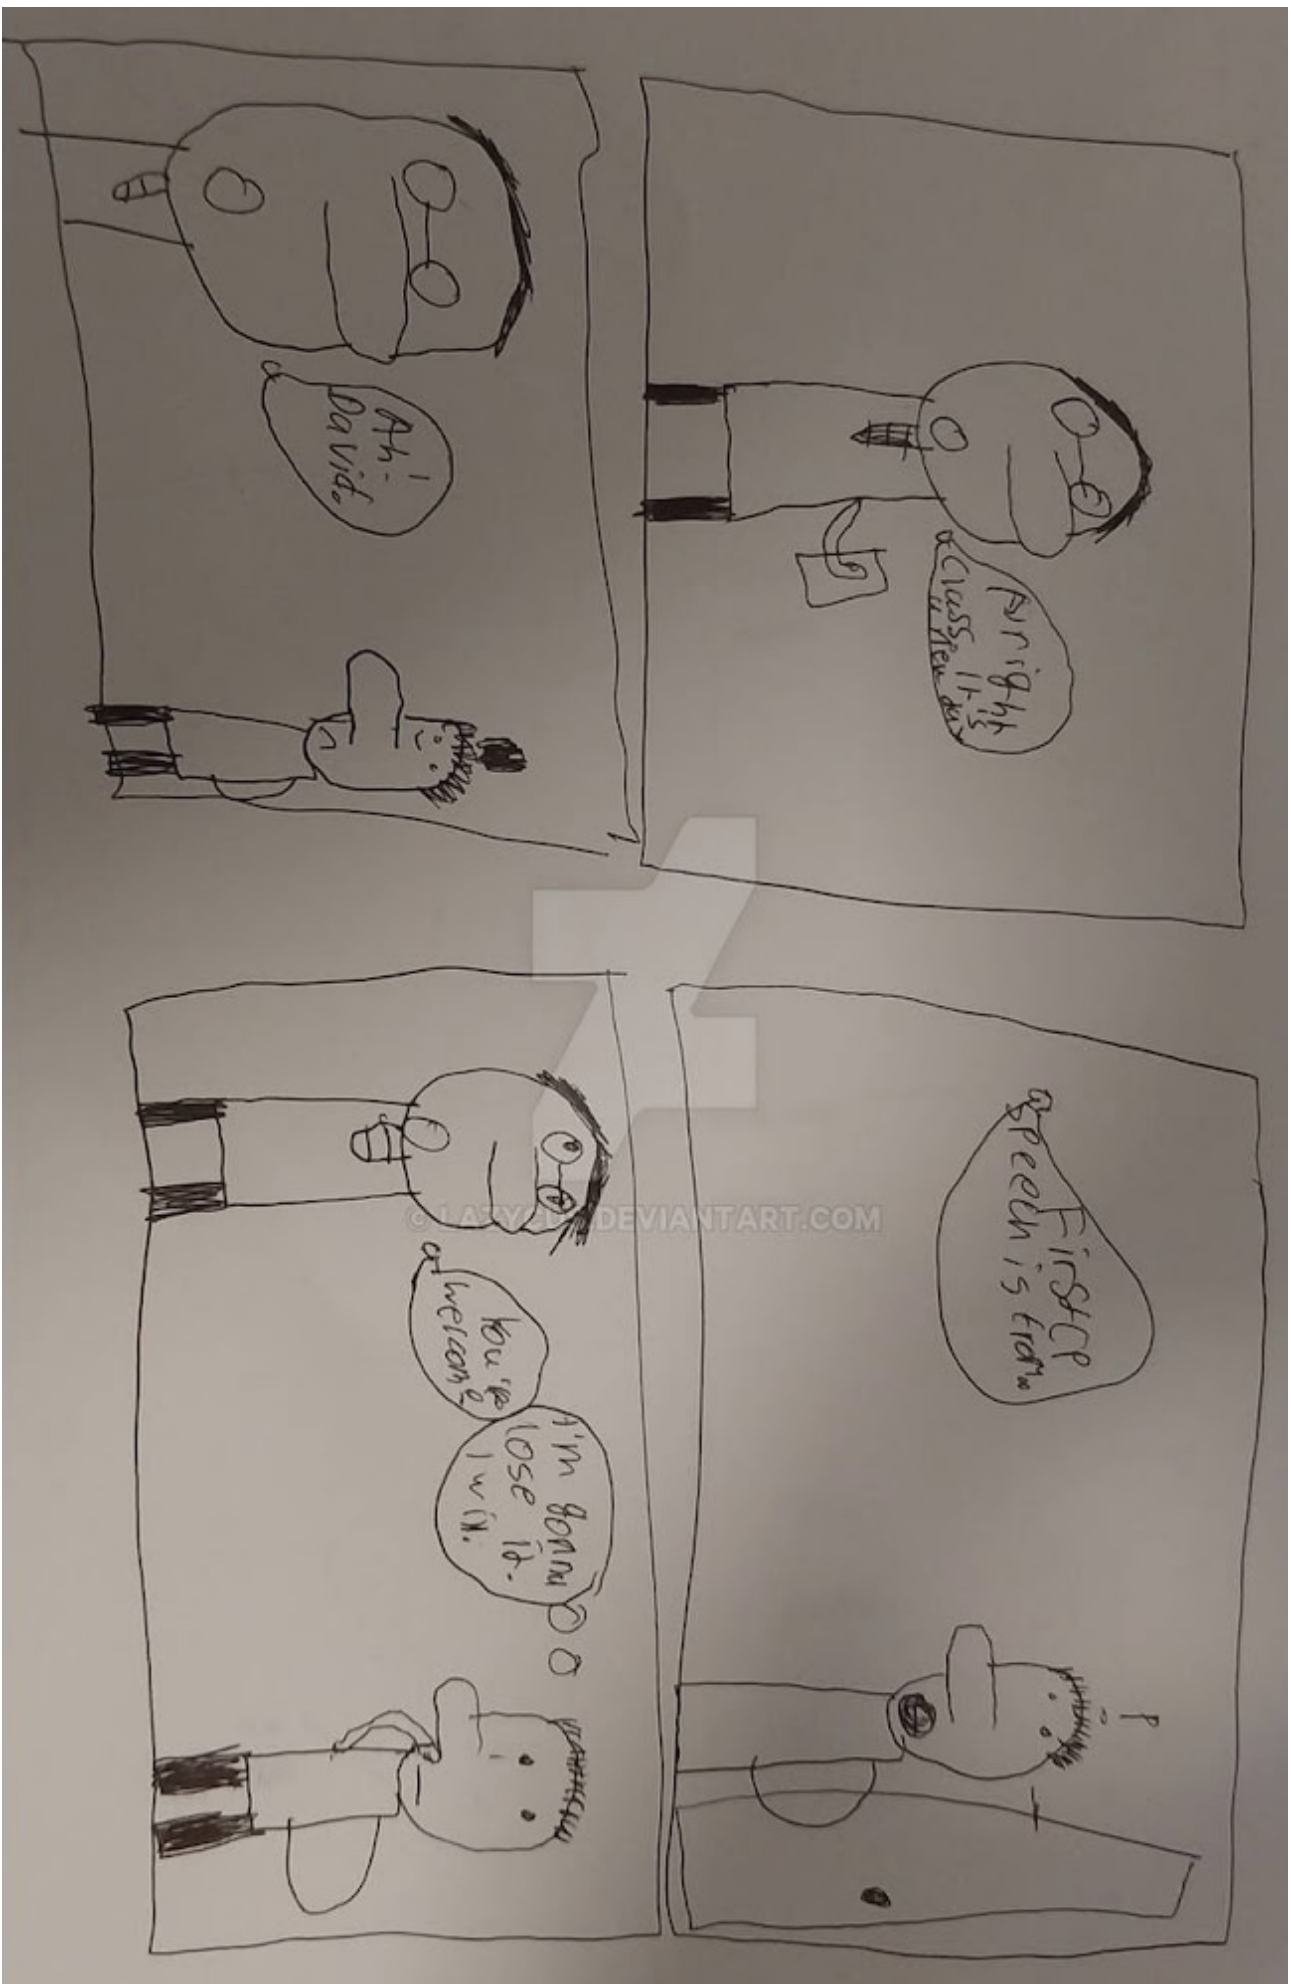

Author commentary: So, the pizza incident that happened at school in the afternoon this comic is set has scarred David and he can't eat it because he thinks of losing. That sounds like something only a wimp would do. Also, ew. Salad.

Author commentary: This one is my least favourite. It reminds me of arngren.net's website. It's just a bunch of other comics bungled up together. It sucks. Also, no punchline.

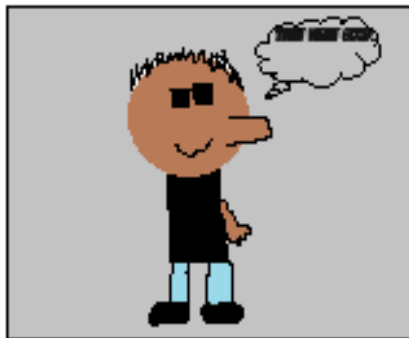

Author commentary: If you wanted to know why I don't draw on paper with pen, there ya have it.

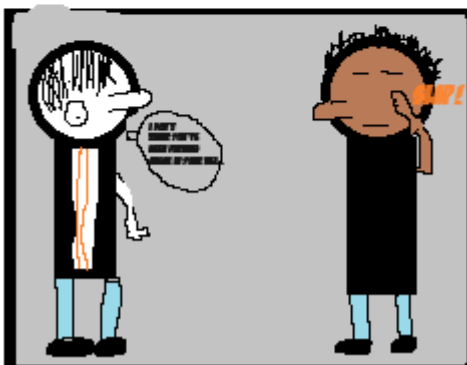

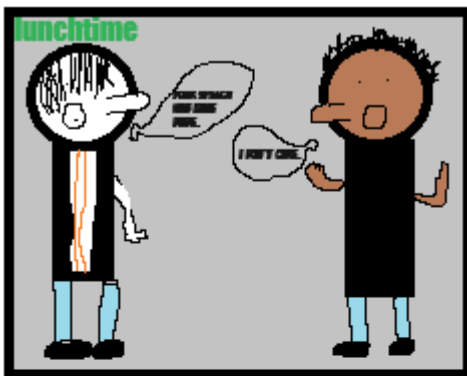

Author commentary: Flip your head or your phone around. This one sucks anyways so it's not worth your time.

Author commentary: Forget Jackie Climax, we have.. Oliver Climax!
The big day, and David gives a 4 word speech.

Author commentary: Some "inspirational/I-D-G-A-C" talk from Mr. David Pierce.

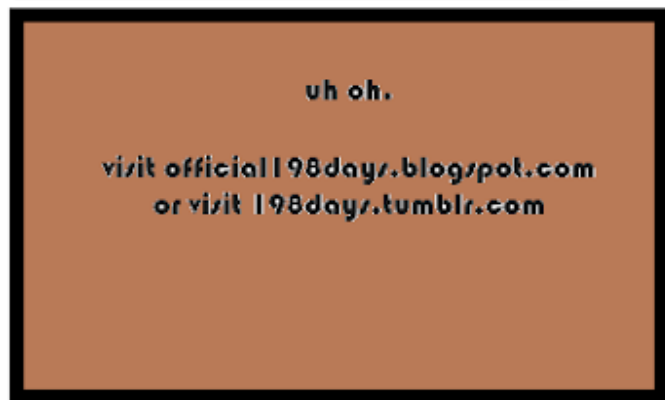

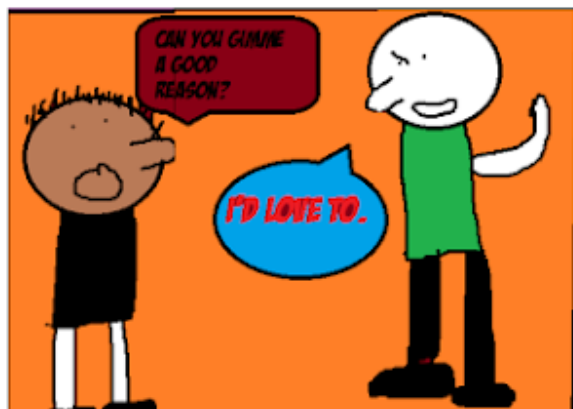

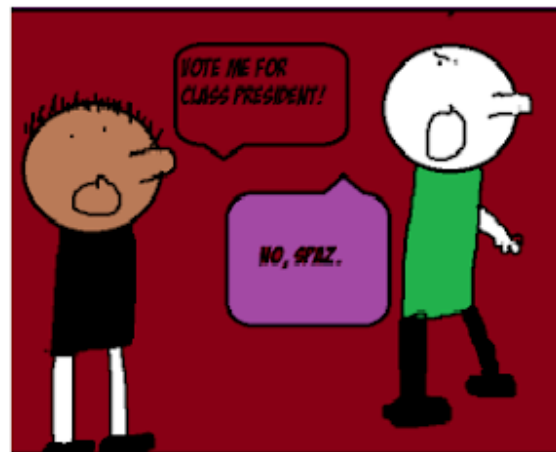

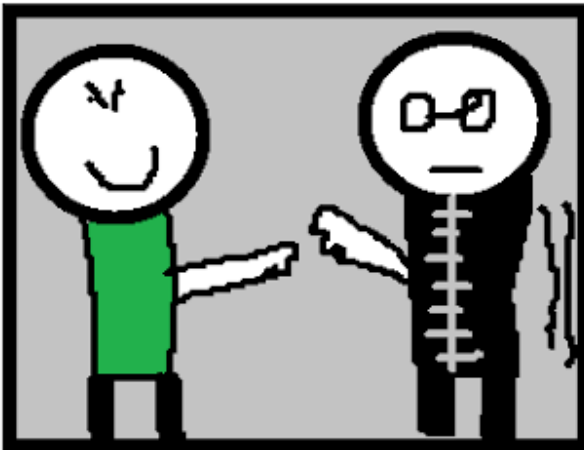

Can't get enough goofy comics like this one?
 Then see a doctor.
 AND VISIT:

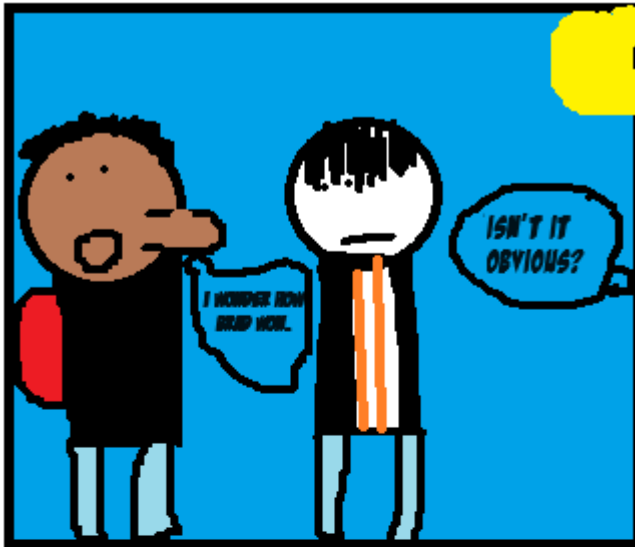

official198days.blogspot.com
198days.tumblr.com
 for daily webcomix, trailers, and updates on the comics!!

pls follow me

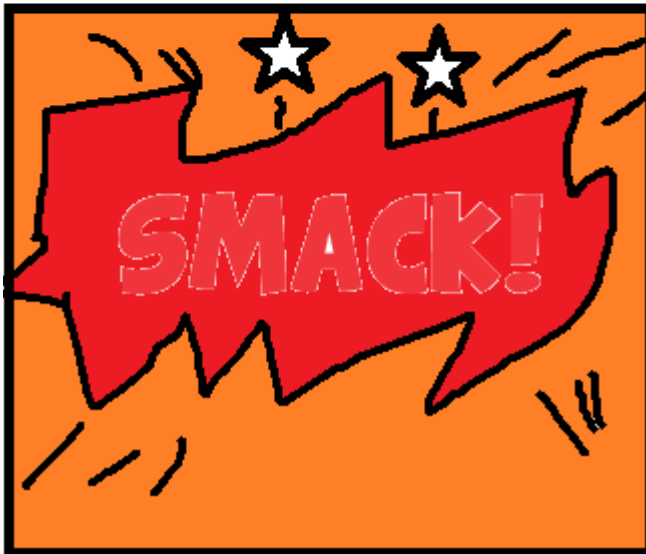

Author commentary: They say never judge a book by it's skills in the English language and ability to get you hyped for something.. well that's exactly what Dave's class did.

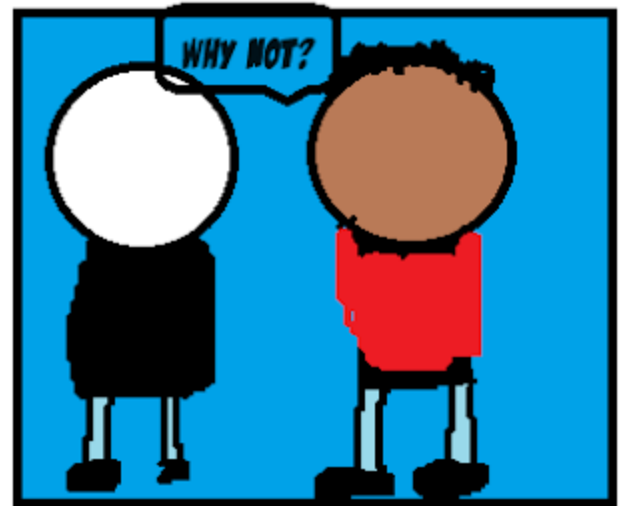

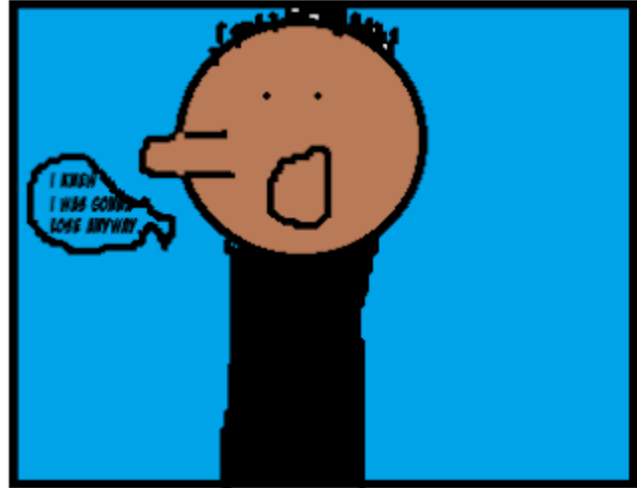

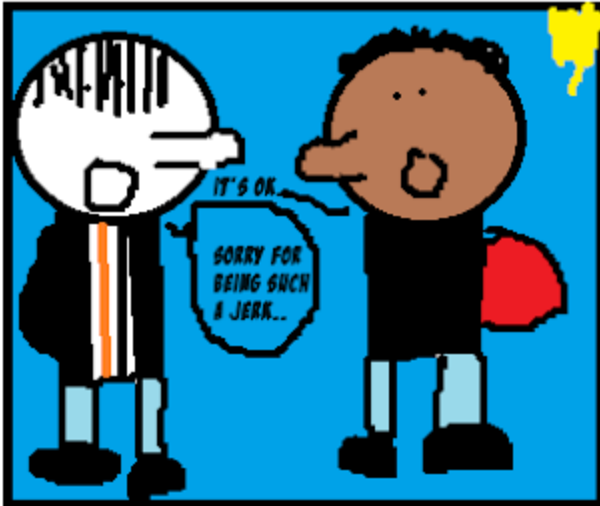

Author commentary: Whenever I think of a bully name for any reason, I immediately think of the word "Brad". I added his middle nickname "Skullhead" because most bullies are eggy and stuff.

"instead of being a nerd and bribing these losers to get votes.."

Author commentary: Yeesh. Skullface really has the guts to beat up his own teacher... Welp, it's the Sigma grindset. I also forgot to add this in the comic, but I'm pretty sure he beat up every single teacher in there.

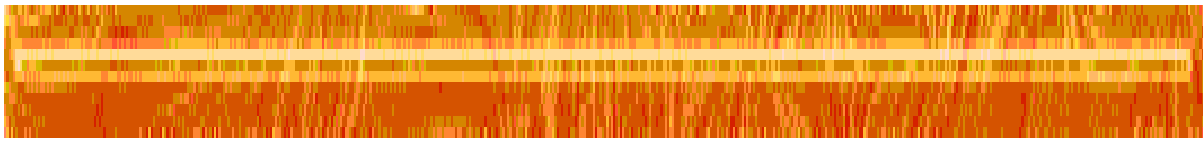

THE END

(of the class president arc)

Author commentary: A nice ending to the class president arc. I imagine this ending with that slow piano music that'd play at the end of a nice LazyTown scene (it had the tune to Alt I Lagi I Latabae) that was Milford's theme, basically.

MORE AUTHOR COMMENTARY

So... I liked this arc. It was fun to write and draw. I'm pretty proud of myself for thinking it up, and a good plot twist. If it was like other comics, either Magnus would win and Maggi and David become enemies, or David wins, Maggi apologizes, a feel good ending.

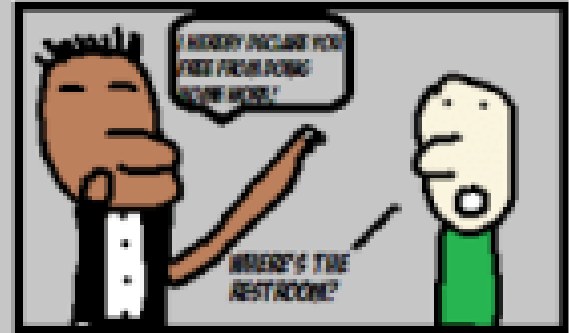

With this one, you get a bittersweet ending. None of them won after all the trouble they went to, and it kinda broke Magnus' record of always winning things.

But they're still friends, but for the rest of the year a bully DOES own the class so that might not work out.

So, anyways, the PDF book is over. I hope you enjoyed it.

Thanks for reading, and don't forget to check the sites regularly!

official198days.blogspot.com
198days.tumblr.com

David thinks if he was in charge, school'd rule.
Now he has the chance to prove it.

When 2008 class president elections start happening at David's school, he snatches the opportunity to make a school an awesome ride!

But he didn't count on Magnus Bjork, his best friend who wins all types of competitions and arguments.

Now they must battle to win the role of class president in just 2 weeks in:

198 DAYS CLASS PRESIDENT

OLIVER K

Self-edited, self-written, self-drawn, and self published